Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice – Tenure Track Position

Summary: The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice at Indiana University of Pennsylvania invites applications for a full-time tenure-track appointment beginning August 2016.

Our department, which has the largest undergraduate enrollment at IUP, offers Bachelor’s, Master’s, and Doctorate degrees. Founded in 1875, IUP is a vibrant, comprehensive, teaching-focused, research-based, student-centered learning community located approximately 55 miles northeast of Pittsburgh. IUP combines the highly personalized and intimate learning-centered environment of a small college with the academic opportunities of a large university and serves approximately 14,000 students, 1550 employees and a diverse community of visitors and partners. Additional information about the department and the position is available from the department’s website http://www.iup.edu/criminology

Qualifications: Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Criminology, Criminal Justice, or a closely related social science discipline; area of specialization is open, with a special interest in any of the following areas: terrorism and homeland security, cyber security, restorative justice, court systems, drugs and crime, and police; preference will also be given to candidates with relevant teaching experience; applicants must have degree in hand at time of appointment. As our university has a contractual 4/4 teaching load (typically with a maximum of two preparations per semester and potential course reduction opportunities) and quality graduate programs, we are seeking applicants with both a strong commitment to teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels and a commitment to pursuing an active research agenda. Additionally, the department seeks candidates whose teaching, research, or service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and inclusion in higher education. Candidates must communicate effectively and perform well during the interview(s), which will include a research demonstration.

How to apply:

All applications for this position must be submitted via our online application system. Please do not fax, mail or e-mail any documentation. Only complete applications will be considered and application review will continue until position is filled. A complete application will contain a letter of interest, curriculum vita, names and email addresses for three references, evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness, and unofficial transcripts. Three (3) letters of reference must be on file with IUP before consideration is given for an on campus interview. Official transcripts will be needed for hire. Supporting materials, such as copies of publications or writing samples that demonstrate their research interests, are also encouraged. Full consideration will be given to applications received by September 14, 2015. Committed to excellence through diversity, IUP is an equal opportunity employer M/F/H/V. Indiana University of Pennsylvania is a member of the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education.
